On The Nose:

Dark and brooding..... Brambly red & black berry fruit, boysenberry, provincial herb with hints of black pepper and cream. Careful not to fall to far down the rabbit hole...

On the Palate:

Mouthwatering red berry fruit that interwoven into a complex matrix of structure and acid to balance. Layers of red berry, blackberry, plum and blood orange that turn dark and brooding with anise, provincial herb and pepper that trail into a rich crème brulée finish.

This was made for Steak Au Poivre... finished with a brandy cream sauce

On the Nose:

Violets, Blueberry, mushroom and forest floor.

On the Palate:

Imagine diving into a warm pool in the dark, senses tingling, sensation overloaded that is exciting and invigorating all at once. Impressive in the depths of the blackness, deep black berry, blueberry fruit laced with mushroom and hints of spice that build to a impressive structure. The sheer size can be overwhelming but the massive tannins are cloaked in velvet and trail into a creamy oak finish. Don't be afraid of the dark....

On the palate:

Bright red & black fruit layered with strawberry rhubarb pie. Mouthwatering acid profile provides balance against the lush and decadent fruit that is laced with tart cherry, hints of anise and black pepper. Tasted to:

"3 days", by Jane's Addiction off the album Ritual de los Habitual

On the Nose:

Lush Bing Cherry, pomegranate, dried herbs and caramel. A tactile interpretation thrust upon the olfactory. Meaning such bouquet, it is a taste you can smell. Sensory decadence.

On the Palate:

Bright cherry layered with red berry fruit that build into a big and elegant structure. The lush mouth feel is laced with subtle vanilla, black pepper and caramel notes that trail into a long graceful toasted oak and crème brulée finish. This is Baryshnikov & Nureyev! This is the power and grace of ballet. Give yourself to the dance.
